First Paper for MATH 202

1. Take either of the journals: Mathematics Teaching in the Middle School, or Teaching Children Mathematics that you feel will be of the most value to you in your career. Give a brief review of twelve articles that you feel form a cross section of the types of articles they publish. These twelve articles should be chosen from as many different issues as possible that were published between Jan 2006 and April 2007. This paper will probably be anywhere from 5 to 8 pages long.

The following is a set of brief instructions used by permission from Dr. Hamlin. I have changed the class ID and the password to match our situation.

ENGL 225: Survey of American Literature After 1865
Dr. Annemarie Hamlin

You are required for this class to submit your papers in a hard copy and electronically through Turnitin.com, an electronic Internet service. You should note that the service will automatically screen your paper for inappropriate use of sources, so check your paper carefully before submitting to see whether you’ve correctly cited all sources. Here are the steps to follow:

1. Point your web browser to www.turnitin.com.
2. Click on “user login”
3. Click on “Click here to get started” and follow the instructions for registering.
4. Go to login and click on the “join new class” button.
5. Enter class ID (1859513) and enrollment password (calvintlong) and click on submit.
6. To submit a paper, click on the “turn it in!” button.
7. Follow the instructions and fill in the appropriate boxes (including paper title and assignment.

You will receive a digital receipt ID number. Please print or save this page and number for your records.

When you have successfully completed your submission, go to logout.

If you have any difficulty getting this submitted through turnitin.com, please email your paper to Dr. Clarke as an attachment (wclarke@lasierra.edu). Your paper’s score will not be recorded until your submission has been successfully made to turnitin.com.
